FIRE AND POLICE TESTS TO BE GIVEN

A written examination of applicants for positions on the fire and police departments will be given at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening by the fire and police commission. Several men who have been serving probationary periods on both forces are planning to take the tests.

Others who wish to write on the questions to gain entrance to either department may do so by making application to the commission or Chief Morrissey and then undergoing a physical examination.

Applications must be accompanied by certificates of three citizens as to character and ability. Tests in reading, writing, arithmetic, city government, location of streets and public buildings will be given. Each applicant must be between 21 and 55, not less than 5 feet 6 inches tall and not under 155 pounds in weight. He must be a legal voter and must have resided in the city for at least three years.

That there may be new openings in the police department within the next few months is the opinion of Chief Morrissey who says the need is now felt of a plain-clothes man and a day ambulance driver.

CLEANLINESS AND COMMON SENSE.
Janesville is particularly fortunate in the state of health of her citizens at this time. While there is a considerable amount of illness, yet, except for a comparatively few cases the type is mild and we are able to go about in our usual way unhindered by the restrictions which have been found necessary in other cities. The fact that we have been free to do as we please should not be abused nor should we as individuals countenance letting down the bars on the part of others.
The common sense safeguards of ventilation, sanitation and general cleanliness should be insisted upon, otherwise we may find our freedom restricted by authority. Poor ventilation is a dangerous menace to health at all times and especially so when colds are prevalent as now. Every hall and room where people gather should be properly ventilated at all times, every sleeping room should be aired, every person should bathe frequently and drink water freely, not just occasionally, but often. Cleanliness, both inside and out, are cardinal principles of health.
Above all, the mind should not be permitted to dwell on the subject of illness. More people are scared into sickness than ever contract it otherwise. When you have a feeling that you are not just fit, drink a lot of water, preferably warm or hot, and get out into the fresh air and fill up your lungs with long, deep inhalations. Go home and lie down and call a doctor if you don't get back to normal at once.

CHINA REASONABLY WARY.
Japan has announced its readiness to "negotiate" with China for the retrocession of Shantung to its rightful owner, but the Chinese have repulsed their neighbor's advances. Can you blame them? The Chinese want Shantung and are entitled to it, as all the world admits, but getting the rich province as Japan would hand it to them, they might be worse off than they now are.
For the Japanese it is to be said that their tender is made in pursuance of their pledge to restore Shantung to China, from which the Germans had taken it under forced loans of certain parcels in territory. Japanese honor is bound up in this proceeding. But China has refused to recognize the authority of the supreme council at Paris to award the former German rights to Japan, as is done in the peace treaty with Germany, and has declined to ratify the treaty. It does not admit that Japan has any rights in Shantung. In consequence it holds that negotiations for the return of its property are not in order. Compliance with its obligation to the treaty makers by Japan would be, in Chinese estimation (and in the estimation of a great many others), a simple relinquishment whereupon Chinese administration of the province would automatically be revived. Certainly that would be simplicity itself, and honestly into the bargain. But Japan wants a contract. In exchange for giving up what it does not lawfully hold in its possession, save as the decision of the Paris jobbers may be acknowledged to have authority to make law, it will demand a quid pro quo of China. What it intends to exact of the weak neighbor has been hinted, but there is nothing of assurance that the hint has covered the ground.
Americans are unable to prevent the carrying out of the Paris job, of which they do not approve, but if their good opinion is valued by the Japanese, as the latter would have us believe that it is, would it not be wise to make known just what their designs are? If China is not to be further victimized why any secrecy? Why not deliver Shantung to its owner and be square with the world?

THE VALUE OF A GOOD NAME.
Who steals my purse steals trash;
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which no thief can harm;
And makes me poor indeed.—Shakespeare.
A display advertisement in Pittsburgh newspapers offers for sale a firm name. No merchandise, nothing tangible, is included; the buyer obtains nothing but the right to use the name of a business concern which, according to the advertisement, was established 50 years ago and has won respect.
The proprietor of one of the oldest and best known shoe stores in New York City bequeathed to an employee the right to use the firm name, and the comment was generally heard in business circles that the legacy was more valuable than any material gift in the power of the testator to bestow.
The president of a company manufacturing a well-known biscuit once said that he regarded the name of this article as one of the most valuable of the company's assets.
J. P. Morgan the elder, testifying before the Fuld committee investigating the alleged "money trust," said he would more readily lend a vast sum of money to a man of good reputation who presented no collateral security than lend a small sum to a man of questionable character, no matter what security he put up.
A good name, therefore, a reputation for probity, either in an individual or a corporation, may actually have cash value. In taking inventory of oneself and one's possessions, accordingly, one of the first inquiries should be as to how one's name would be appraised.
AS TO LIMITING PRODUCTION.

JUST FOLKS
Edgar A. Guest
THE BLAME.
When Walter Notanickie fell in love with Mabel Lee,
Her parents said: "Good heavens! Such a match can never be!
This young man is beneath her; he'd disgrace our family name!"
So they promptly said to Mabel, she must choose another spouse,
And they ordered all the servants not to let him in the house.
Now Walter Notanickie heard the orders, and he said:
"Though the old folks do not like me, it's not them I want to wed;
They can think up names to call me 'till their brains are in a whirl,
But they'll wake up some fine morning and they'll find I've got the girl."
And fair Mabel said to Walter: "Spite of all my parents say,
I will take you for my husband," So one night they ran away.
Now the honeymoon is over, and fair Mabel sits at night,
And sadly realizes that her parents had it right,
For Walter Notanickie has turned out to be no good
And is treating pretty Mabel as her father said he would;
And the old folks sit in sorrow, and they say that it's a shame,
But they never think one minute that for this match they're to blame.

farmers, given to the postoffice committee of the Senate by James I. Blaisdell, fourth assistant postmaster general. Forty thousand answers to a questionnaire sent out generally, indicate an intention to cut down acreages and reduce production of foodstuffs in 1920.
The farmers have several grievances. They work hard, with long hours, and for comparatively small returns, they hold, while city dwellers live more comfortably, and put in fewer hours at higher pay. According to Mr. Blaisdell's report, the farmer is "no longer willing to toil and produce for the striker, the profiteer and the short-hour, high-wage man."
What shall we say to the farmers who would reduce the supply in order to increase prices? Do they differ much from industrial chiefs who limit output to get the same results? Or from skilled workers who restrict apprenticeships and slow down operations in order to perpetuate the labor shortage?
We have one another by the throat, and the more we punish others, the more we suffer ourselves. The farmers have had their faces trampled upon, and now they would walk upon the countenances of those who have headed them not. The vicious circle grows more vicious.
There is but one way to salvation. When Premier Millerand told the French to "produce or die," he pointed the way. We must work harder, produce more, create a surplus of goods of all kinds. Soviet Russia decrees a twelve-hour working day, having been forced by dire distress to adopt the inevitable remedy. The world must throw off its debauch of laziness and prodigality, and produce.

If the radicals in America are sincere they won't wait to be deported, but will flock back to Russia and work for the abolition of the 12-hour work day.
European aviators are reported to have formed a union. Well, this organization seems to be in the air.
If Oklahoma and Texas do not stop squabbling over that oil well, Uncle Sam will turn both over his knee.
General Wood has at least one good reason for believing that he is suitable presidential timber.
Chicago window washers have gone on strike for $48 a week. That's a dirty trick.

Their Opinions
It seems the income tax blanks do not come because of a strike of printers. We are surprised that somebody does not claim that this strike was caused by the interests who thus hope to get out of paying their income taxes.—Wausau Record-Herald.
The Russian czar, Lenine, is willing to treat for peace. Peace has come to many thousands of Russian citizens at the hands of the murderers Lenine and Trotsky. There is but one way to deal with these outlaws, this, to isolate them.—Racine Journal-News.
According to suicide statistics, newspaper editors appear to be immune. They don't think it worth the effort. Somebody always is around threatening to kill them.—Sioux City Daily Tribune.

More About Helium
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.
Washington, Feb. 5.—A large commercial company for the production of helium has just been formed with retired officers of the United States army as its directors. At the same time the government is initiating a survey of the helium resources of the United States. These are large, and that they are the only known helium fields in the world.
Helium, you know, is the non-inflammable gas which is now used in place of hydrogen for the filling of dirigible balloons. Helium was made in this country during the war, and was ready for shipment to England to be used in the war came to an end.
The interesting thing about helium now is the fact that it seems to be discovered. If helium is found in the quantities which experts believe to exist, it is quite probable that all of us will be safely traveling by air much sooner than would have been possible with only the heavier-than-air machines.
Smooth Traveling
While believers in helium do not underestimate the possibilities of the airplane as the safest and most practical airship, especially for long voyages. They declare that all of us might as well travel in a dirigible instead of a plane without stopping for fuel, that it affords a much smoother way to travel, and that it is practically indestructible. Hereof the greatest danger in balloon travel has been the danger of the inflammable hydrogen, and this one difficulty has been so great as to practically eliminate the dirigible as a common means of aerial transportation. They speak from the motor or a flash of lightning has been sufficient to destroy, in the twinkling of an eye, thousands of dollars, sending the machine with its crew and passengers crashing to the ground in a mass of flames.
Airplanes are dangerous, but compared to the hydrogen-inflated airship they are as safe as cradles in a fireproof building. Scientists are at a loss for a substitute for hydrogen, for apparently it was the only gas obtainable light enough for the purpose.
Balloons No Good in War
The fire hazard practically eliminated the dirigible from the war program. Helium, however, is not so easily set down in ignominious defeat before the anti-craft guns of the enemy. During the hostilities the United States lost a dirigible, but a replacement value reaching over a million dollars, and, as Major Paul Pless declared in his report on helium, the loss of an airship is a loss for a nation.
A dirigible can carry a much greater load than the airplane, it being possible to construct one with a lifting capacity reaching 150,000 to 400,000 pounds, while the largest airplane ever built can carry only about 8,000 pounds.
The original discovery of helium in America was made in a little town called Dexter, in southern Kansas where the advent of light of discovery was regarded rather in the light of a calamity than a blessing by the inhabitants of the town and the owners of the mine.
The men on drilling for the natural gas had been confident of securing a supply sufficient for the household and industrial use of the community, and the opening of the well was made.

French Loan to Be Floated Through U. S. Bankers
[By Associated Press]
Paris, Feb. 5.—A portion of the new French loan will be floated in the United States through a consortium of bankers and will be placed in dollars with a view to easing the exchange situation. It is learned here that bonds will be placed in interest in France, being redeemable with a 50 percent bonus within 60 years.
It is understood the amount to be placed in the United States has not been fixed, but some estimates run as high as $2,000,000,000.
Subscriptions also are being received at London in pounds sterling on the same terms as those given United States financiers.

My cellar is dry and I'm thirsty.
My coal-bin is cold and I'm cold.
My clothes are worn out and I'm shabby.
But times are great, so I am told.
There's nothing at all in the ice-box.
My sugar is gone and I'm sour.
I've pawned the hall clock for a sir-loin.
I don't even know what's the hour.

Prosperity, I cannot stand.
Accident, prosperity's fixed me.
So I don't know where I'll land.
The "Literary Digest" cover contains a picture of an old man looking at a thermometer. There is a heavy snow falling and the mercury registers 15 degrees below zero. We can't get a cook to stay with us. I criticize our old friend the "Digest," but nobody ever saw a heavy snow-fall in that temperature.

A WISH
"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Give us our sugar, so gleaming and white,
Give us the old-fashioned thirty-cent lunch,
And blooming young soup greens at two cents a bunch,
Orchestras seats at a dollar a throw,
Good shirts and kellys at two bucks or so.
Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Give us our hops again, just for tonight."

BULK GRAIN GIVEN PREFERENCE IN ALL SHIPPING IN REGION

Bulk grain was placed in the priority class of cargo shipments throughout the northwestern district by a sweeping order issued today by R. H. Ashton, regional director of Chicago. All local railroad officials were instructed to secure full cooperation of grain shippers, farmers and commercial organizations. The order becomes effective Sunday to continue until Feb. 15.

This has been made necessary, he explains, in order to bring the large crop to terminal markets.

The text of the ruling follows: "Because of the imperative necessity to provide greater movement of bulk grain, the grain loading railroads serving the states of Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Missouri, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wisconsin, Kansas, Arkansas and Texas will give preference and priority in the furnishing of box cars for bulk grain loading from February 8 to 15 inclusive after providing for the loading of less than carload merchandise, print, paper and sugar."

This means that to the extent necessary to fill requirements all available box car equipment is to be placed in the hands of the bulk grain shippers and will be continued to this class of traffic.

"The ruling was made by Walker D. Hines director general."

CHILD CAMPAIGNER TO AID NEAR EAST

With a multitude of honors for campaigning in the five Liberty Loan drives, Red Cross, Belgian Violet McKoy Stroud, child recruiter, returned to this city today to do her bit in putting across the Near East Relief drive which begins Monday.

Violet, with her parents, is doing a musical sketch at the Apollo theater. Two years ago she appeared at the same theater afterwards campaigning for the third Liberty loan in the lobby of the theater.

That probably has the child's record for war work. She has to her credit the selling of $7,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds; collected $17,000 worth of Red Cross membership; 101 barrels of clothing for Belgian children; recruited 2,000 men for the army and marine corps, and 1,500 men for the navy.

As soon as she reaches a town she interests herself in the town's projects entering into them with even more vigor than the best citizen, offering her entire time out of the theater to campaigning for whatever the cause.

ROTARIANS WOULD SPEED UP CONGRESS

A telegram asking that the local Rotary club appeal to congress for immediate settlement of the treaty between the United States and the Myers hotel Wednesday. It was sent here by the Rotary club of New Haven, Conn. No action was taken.

A talk on the Bahai Revelation, a movement for social and spiritual reconstruction, was given by Edward C. Ives, Chicago, connected with the National Industrial Speakers' bureau, Cleveland. BUILDERS OF THREE CITIES MEET HERE

Results of a meeting of the local builders association held here Tuesday night with representatives from Beloit and Madison present have just leaked out. Rumors, current yesterday and today, were to the effect that wages, especially affecting carpenters, were the matters discussed.

Neither confirmation nor denial of the reports could be had from William Ford, secretary of the meeting. When asked if the purpose of the conference was to reduce demands of carpenters for higher wages, which are expected shortly, he replied that he had nothing to say, requesting that the matter be kept quiet. To the report that should the pay question be brought up by the workmen and be refused there would be a general suspension of building here, he said that any halt in construction would be due to shortage of materials.

"This talk will die of its own accord if you let it alone," stated Mr. Ford.

Told that there appears to be a general labor unrest here and that organizers from other cities have been working among some of the trades to form unions, and asked if these movements would not counteract silence upon the part of the press, he replied:

"I will let the matter stand as it is. I am not in a position to say anything."

SAMSON DANCE IS WIDELY ATTENDED Samson hospitality claimed 150 couples last evening at the get-together dancing party held in the armory. Employees of the plant and many outsiders were the guests. Thompson's five-piece orchestra furnished the music.

Boxes of candy were given those who chanced to be under the lucky light when the music stopped in the grand dances. The show was attractively decorated with flags. Each person was tagged upon entering the hall—this as a get-together stunt.

LOCAL YOUTH TAKES SAMSON WIRE JOB

George Killeoth, for the past three years an operator at the local branch of the Western Union Telegraph company, has resigned to assume the management of the telegraph division of the Samson Tractor company. He succeeds Frank A. Mohr, who was in the garage business in Port Atkinson.

Mr. Killeoth began work as a messenger boy for the Postal company here several years ago, later becoming an operator for that line. He spent several months in similar work at Camp Grant during the war, returning to Janesville later as a coming assistant manager at the Western Union office, which position he has held since.

DYE FIRM TO OPEN BRANCH IN BELOIT

The Brockhaus Dye works will establish a plant in Beloit according to W. C. Brockhaus who announced today that with his Beloit representative, F. L. Anderson, he had purchased the Beloit Free Press building which will be at once converted into a dye and cleaning house.

While Mr. Anderson has represented the Janesville Dye works in Beloit for 10 years the work has always been brought to this city to be handled. The new plant will be entirely separate from the local office. It will be ready for business some time in March.

These new investors are not possessors of large capital and have never been able to invest before. We are meeting this demand of the small investor, and have securities in amounts to meet their needs.

Certainly Mrs. Wylie was not warning the sheriff against herself. Then against whom? He must know her antecedents at once. Calling up a local detective agency, he asked the manager to let him know within an hour or two all that could be found out about the woman without alarming her.

"Wait a moment, I think we have her on the phone. Hold the phone." The detective presently returned. "We can give you the facts. Will you come to the office for them?"

Fifteen minutes later Curly knew that Mrs. Wylie was the divorced wife of Lute Blackwell.

He returned to the Del Mar and sent his name to the manager. With Kate and Bob there was also in the room Alice Flaudrau.

The girl came forward lightly to meet him. "He asked quietly."

"Yes, tell me, when did your father last meet Lute Blackwell so far as you know?"

"The owner of the Map of Texas answered the question of his nephew. He met him the other day. Let's see. It was right after a big game."

"We met him at the Flaudraus. Lute had to straighten out some notions he had got."

"How?"

"Flaudrau, senior, told the story of what had occurred in the hotel lobby."

"And you say he swore to get even?"

"That's what he said. And he looked like he meant it, too."

"What is it? What have you found out?" Kate inquired.

"The young man told about the letters and Mrs. Wylie."

"We've got to get a move on us," he concluded. "If Lute Blackwell did this thing to your father, it's mighty serious for him."

"Kate was white to the lips, but in no danger of breaking down. "Yes, if this man is in it he would not stop at less than murder. But I don't believe it. I know father is alive."

"Yes, Flaudrau is the man we want. I'm sure of it."

"First thing is to search the Jack."
